GERMAN TROOPS IN WARSAW SUBURBS

Centre of Polish Capital Being Bombed Steadily—Reports Conflicting as to Exact Position of Invading Forces—Poles Said to Be Planning Retreat If Stubborn Resistance Fails

BUDAPEST, Sept. 9 (Saturday). (AP).—A broadcaster speaking Polish with a German accent on the Warsaw station's wave length announced early today the Polish capital was being entered by German troops and warned all residents punishment would be meted out to Poles found with weapons when the city "finally falls."

Meantime, another announcer, professing to speak from the Polish station, denied the capital had fallen, and stated "the Germans have taken our wave length." The Polish station said: "Everyone in Warsaw is at his post."

The Warsaw radio broadcast a general order to army from the chief of staff to his soldiers, saying:

"Soldiers, you must defend the capital with all your strength. We have taken positions from which we cannot retreat one step."

"The time has come to take revenge for the spilling of blood of women, children and soldiers who have fallen in Poland's defence."

"The attack of the enemy will exhaust itself against our defence. Order will prevail."

Earlier the Polish announcer said that German planes were bombing the capital, and stated Polish land forces in the southwest were withdrawing in the face of the German onslaught.

STEADILY BOMBING CITY

The announcer said that German airplanes were steadily bombing the centre of the city. He said bombs were raining on theatres, squares and in Warsaw's main streets.

At 10:55 p.m. the Polish station at Lwow had announced the Germans, whose motorized units had made swift progress from the north during the day, had entered the residential suburbs of Warsaw, within the city limits.

The station, identified as Warsaw, said:

"The push of the German army has been so terrific that Polish land forces have been obliged to yield in the direction of Kielce (fifty miles northeast of Krakow), Plozkow and Tarnow, where they will take up new positions."

BAN-SHOOTING WEST OF CITY

B.C. Government Backs Civic Request Tightening Watershed Guard

Supporting Victoria City in a request to stop hunters from discharging firearms at or near the city's watershed, now under civil guard, the Provincial Government acted yesterday to outlaw hunting in parts of Malahat, Otter Point, Sooke and Deseronto, local districts. Hunters were also requested not to shoot near the watershed. General Wimmer set out the bounds of the prohibited watershed area as follows:

All that part of the Malahat Otter, Sooke and Goldstream land districts included within the following boundaries: On the west, by the Sooke River and westerly boundaries of the Sooke watershed; on the north, by the northern boundary of the Sooke watershed and a line drawn from there easterly to Shawanigan Lake Road; on the east, by the Shawanigan Lake Road and the Island Highway; on the south, by the Sooke-Victoria Road.

HUNTING SEASON OPENS

Hunting, commencing today, would have taken place over much of this now prohibited area, with a consequent bagging of firebirds in the vicinity of the watershed itself. Victoria City asked for the prohibition of shooting in the area, which was immediately granted, and effected by order in council. Military authorities, at the same time requested cessation of hunting or shooting near the watershed, the Province incorporating that request also in its appeal to the public.

Meanwhile, guards appeared for the first time in the corridors and entrances of the Legislative Buildings, where it is expected a system of identity passes will shortly be worked out. The Civil Protection Committee, under E. W. Griffith, conferred during the day with city officials, seeking to speed up local arrangements through a metropolitan committee and voluntary groups, as already outlined.

The fifth casualty of the day was the Dutch minesweeper Willem van Eyck, which went down off the North Netherlands coast with a loss of thirty lives.

CANADIANS IN CREW

Prime Minister Sees No Present Necessity to Dispatch Expeditionary Force, But Says Canadian Airmen May Enter Fray at Once—Outlines Policy for Defence and Co-operation

Immediate Task Is to Guard Coasts and Furnish Supplies

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (CP).—Canada will stand shoulder to shoulder with Great Britain in the war against Nazi Germany or find another Government, Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons today.

The Prime Minister said that his Government believes conscription for overseas service would not be necessary or effective, adding:

"No such measure will be introduced by the present administration."

Concluding his address tonight to the emergency war session of Parliament, Mr. Mackenzie King said that the Government had announced its policy and the question of peace or war remains for Parliament to decide.

"That question is not decided yet," he declared. "The Government has made its decision as to what its policy is. But it is for the honorable members of this House to say whether they stand by that policy."

LEAVES ISSUE TO PARLIAMENT

Conforming to his settled policy of leaving the issue of Canadian participation in war to Parliament, the Prime Minister today outlined his policy and asked the House to support him in it.

"If the House will not support us in these policies it will have to find another Government," he declared.

He gave no indication he had any doubt of the decision of the House, and was greeted with applause from all sides. A few minutes before the House heard Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, Conservative leader, declare himself for participation in the war and pledge his support to the Government in its policies.

John Blackmore, Social Credit leader, bespoke his party's wish to give full Canadian support to Great Britain. But J. S. Woodsworth, leader of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, was not in agreement, although he said he spoke for himself and not his party.

"I cannot give my consent to anything that will drag us into another war," Mr. Woodsworth declared.

DEMANDS COMPLETE CONSCRIPTION

While endorsing Canadian participation in the war, Mr. Blackmore demanded conscription of wealth, industry and manpower.

Dr. Manion asserted that Canada's best defence in the struggle now beginning was an overseas offensive. He said there is no doubt that Canada actually is at war and urged the Government "to declare openly and clearly our position."

The dispatch of a general expeditionary force to European battlefields is a matter for future consideration, Mr. Mackenzie King indicated. Canada's immediate war-like steps will be the defence of Canadian territory and nearby British territory, such as Newfoundland; co-operation in economic measures aimed at Germany, and the furnishing of arms and supplies to Great Britain.

Canadian airmen, however, may enter the fray at once. They will probably be the first Canadian fighters to see active service.

"The information we have obtained," said Mr. Mackenzie King, "indicated that the most immediate and effective further means of co-operation would be a rapid expansion of air training and of air and naval facilities, and the dispatch of trained air personnel. These measures we propose to institute immediately."

DRAMATIC AND GRAVE SCENE

For drama and gravity, the day will long stand out in Canadian Parliamentary history. A full attendance of members and hundreds of gallery spectators heard Mr. Mackenzie King declare that the forces of evil and the forces of good in the world are renewing their age-old conflict and Canada must be on the side of the forces of good.

Not a little of the drama was provided by the personality of the Prime Minister. A life-long advocate of peace and good will was leading a nation into war. A man who for years has urged moderation of speech in regard to other nations now denounced the leader of Nazi Germany in unsparring terms.

The Prime Minister recalled his previous efforts to promote good will in both industrial and international relations, and said he never thought it would fall to his lot to take the action now demanded by him by the turn of events.

"That responsibility I take with a sense of being true to the blood that is in my veins," he declared.

He joined with Dr. Manion in a plea for cooperation of the honest views of all Canadians, and beseeched as well tolerance for the German people. As one who knew both German Canadians and Old Country Germans well, he declared the war was not against them, but against the tyrannical regime which held them in slavery.

The value of the war was Adolf Hitler's lust for power. The German leader had violated all pledges. His objective was not Poland alone, but a continuous drive into the countries of Northern Europe which now called themselves neutral.

CANNOT GO UNCHECKED

If Britain and France went down in the present struggle none of these countries would be called by the name it now bore. Neutrality and isolation were a myth so long as aggression of the character now being waged.

LONDON, Sept. 8 (CP).—Prime Minister Chamberlain was received in a special audience tonight by the King.

Canadians in London Respond to Call to Arms in Hundreds

Men and Women Rush to Canada House to Enlist in British Army or Volunteer Their Services for Other Duties

LONDON, Sept. 8 (By Wire)—Both Canadians and Americans are enlisting in the British army, largely from burning indignation over the sinking of the Athenia. The Canadian response has been explosive. For three days, the office of Vincent Massey, the Canadian High Commissioner, in Trafalgar Square, has been besieged by men seeking to enlist and women volunteering to fill sandbags, cook in hospitals and camps, and wash dishes and milk cows on farms.

For the present, their names and it is believed. Probably half of the addresses are being recorded. Up to date, 1,200 Canadians have registered for military service.

The number of Canadians in Great Britain is unknown. During all of last year, 12,000 registered with the commissioner. Several thousand others neglected to do so.

Recruiting Better Though Many Men Are Still Needed

RECRUITING throughout British Columbia for the Canadian active service force has shown improvement during the last two days, it was reported by military authorities yesterday, but many enlistments are still required to bring the defence force up to strength. Recruiting up to the present represents only about 50 per cent of the requirement, it was stated.

workers by the British Labor Party. While Government leaders also lost no time in striking at German food lines on the high seas, they prepared for the time when their own people must "tighten their belts."

In his statement on the expected rationing of bacon and butter, Mr. Morrison explained a great deal of Britain's supplies of these foods came from Northern Europe and it was to be expected that some of the supplies might be interrupted in the early stages of the war.

"I do not think," Mr. Morrison said, "that the ships would be submerged coming across the navy would look to that—but the supply of commodities might have to be rationed themselves."

FISH SUPPLIES
Mr. Morrison said there had been some trouble regarding fish supplies as a result of the recall of the fishing fleet by the Admiralty but he was confident this problem would be solved as soon as the new Food Ministry had time to set its organization running smoothly.

The communiqué said an order would be issued shortly to move certain bulk stocks of food from vulnerable areas. Large quantities of meat, butter and tea were moved to provincial stores a few days ago, it was stated.

DUTCH WARSHIP SUNK BY MINE

Thirty Perish When Craft Hit by Explosive Planted by Own Navy

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 8 (AP)—The Netherlands mine sweeper Willem Van Ewijk was sunk today by a mine planted by its own navy off Northern Netherlands, which cost the lives of thirty men, the Government announced tonight after an investigation.

The accident occurred while a new mine field was being laid north of the West Frisian Islands, officials said. The Willem Van Ewijk was engaged in the operation with a number of mine layers when a strong tide drove the vessel upon a mine.

The mine hit the vessel amidships and blew her to pieces. Twenty-one of the crew of fifty-one were rescued, but four were badly hurt. The commander, G. E. Ten Klooster, was lost.

Most of the rescued sailors escaped only because they were working aboard a small boat near the ship. Three ships from the Helger Naval Base picked up the survivors.

The 500-ton vessel was launched in 1937 and was one of the Netherlands' eight sweepers.

DO BUSINESS AT SAME OLD STAND

LONDON, Sept. 8 (AP)—Britain got down to doing business at the same old stand today.

The Government announced cinema and theatres would open, and police gave permission for football matches tomorrow—all these amusements to take place in rural areas.

Health Minister Elliott announced schools in evacuation areas would be started, and Grace Field-Britain's sweetheart of the music halls, announced a new national "Cheer-Up" song to succeed "Tipperary."

It is called "Wish Me Luck" and starts off: "Wish me luck as you wave me good-bye. Here, here I go on my way. Wish me luck as you wave me good-bye. With a cheer, not a tear make it gay."

Other moves in the propaganda campaign include a broadcast in German by Prime Minister Chamberlain, and an appeal to German

FLEETS BUSY ON ALL SEAS

French and British Have Vast Naval Force Steadily Gaining Strength

PARIS, Sept. 8 (CP-Havas)—"On all seas the French and British fleets are in action."

This simple, brief statement issued by the French Bureau of General Information provides an idea of the task of developing the allied navies, which for almost a week have been fighting out war operations quietly.

The two navies, combined, have a force which is due to be still further strengthened during the coming months. The British naval programme calls for the launching of one warship each week.

FREEDOM OF SEAS
By preserving the freedom of the seas, the fleets will secure the flow of raw materials and industrial products to French and British ports. They will assure the safe transport of British troops proceeding to the Continent, and of overseas troops returning from various parts of the two great empires.

To this essential task is added that of depriving Germany of raw materials and other vital supplies; and of insuring a rigid blockade of German ports.

Both these tasks are facilitated by Germany's geographic position, and the current Italian neutrality, and by the fact Japanese neutrality frees at least part of the units hitherto compelled to remain in the Far East.

EARLY BLOCKADE
The maritime blockade of Germany began in the first hours of hostilities. Germany's single opening into the sea was closed. This outlet is the German Bay, approximately 125 miles wide, between the North Sea and the English Channel.

The German Bay is bounded by the North Sea to the north, the English Channel to the south, and the Dutch coast to the east. It is a narrow channel, only about 10 miles wide at its narrowest point.

These include, first, the Strait of Dover, about thirty miles wide, between the English Channel and the North Sea. It is a narrow channel, only about 10 miles wide at its narrowest point.

INTERNMENT STATIONS TO BE ESTABLISHED

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (CP)—The Department of National Defence is made responsible for establishment and maintenance of internment stations and camps for aliens, under provisions of an order-in-council tabled in the Commons yesterday. The Minister of National Defence shall appoint a senior militia officer to be director of internment operations, the director to report to the Secretary of State.

FRENCH GAINING AS FOE RETREATS

extreme northern end of the front, approximately halfway between the German frontier and the Siegfried Line.

The infantry was reported in a give-and-take action with German troops in the no-man's-land at the tip of the frontier where the French Maginot Line and the German Siegfried Line run out to a distance of some twenty-five miles apart.

French observers said German reinforcements had been dispatched toward the extreme northern tip of the Western front toward the city of Trier.

MOVING TO FRONT
Information here, apparently based on aerial scouting operations over the German lines, said German roads leading to Trier through the Eifel and Ahr valleys were jammed with troop convoys and heavy artillery moving toward the front.

Trier, 17 miles from the French frontier, is just in front of the Siegfried Line. German reinforcements were facing France, and in "no-man's-land" extending about twenty-five miles to the French Maginot Line.

All indications in Paris were that the main French attack and the deepest French advance on German front so far had come on the extreme northern flank.

On the northern flank, the French advance through Germany is protected on its left wing by neutral Luxembourg.

Considering the original French plan as a straight line running from Sirek at the junction of the French-German-Luxembourg borders, to Biele, fifty-five miles south-west, military observers picture the present situation thus:

SWINGING FORWARD
With Biele as a pivot, the line swings forward into Germany in the direction of Trier.

The northern end of the line is about three or four miles—only the French and German staff know exactly—inside German territory in the Saar Basin "no-man's-land," between the two strong fortifications.

The southern end of this line, these sources believe, still rests at Biele or at the most less than one mile in advance of Biele.

To complete the picture of this position, they say, the front line should be bulged out in a slight curve from the northern end to a point a few hundred yards within German territory in front of the French fortified point of Forbach.

Forbach, 16 miles from the French frontier, is the line runs almost straight.

BECOMES HOSTILE
From there on, the frontier becomes dormant in the rock-strewn forest-covered hills between Biele and Wissembourg except for artillery fire.

At Wissembourg, the front again bulges out into German territory. The forest of Hainaut, where the French advance guard was reported cautiously fighting its way forward, the line bends back from there to Lauterbourg, where the front joins the Rhine.

This does not mean that the French have a continuous line of trenches or field fortifications in advance of the Maginot line. More likely there are large gaps between advance units which have been reported as actively cleaning out German machine-gun nests and blockhouses and, as a semi-official statement said, taking up "better positions."

Advices received here indicated that French advance forces near Forbach had not yet reached the city of Saarbrücken, only two miles within Germany.

STREAM OF TROOPS
These reports and that Saarbrücken, an industrial city, was being abandoned by German civilians and that half-way from there north to Coblenz and Cologne were closed to civilian traffic. An endless stream of troops was said to be moving over them toward the front.

will contribute to superannuation at the present rate.

All men enlisting will be guaranteed their original jobs on being demobilized, the statement ended. The decision was ratified by order in council during the course of the day.

Waiting on Ottawa expected to move in the direction of control of profiteering and along other emergency lines, the Principal Government withheld its own special decrees for the second day. Premier Pattullo reiterated that the Province would follow the Dominion in all that was necessary for a united effort.

WILL CURB PROFITEERS

B.C. Government Ready to Act Under Dominion if Prices Boosted

Under the War Measures Act, Canada can control profiteering directly with fines up to $5,000 for flagrant breaches of the statute. Attorney-General Wimmer explained yesterday, in response to local inquiries, the Province, Mr. Wimmer said, "stood ready" to implement any action the Dominion thought necessary, and was waiting now for express instructions in that regard.

Prosecutions in cases of alleged profiteering, where necessary, would be brought in the ordinary channels to police courts, and dealt with there under the law of the land, the Attorney-General explained.

So far no express instructions have been received by the Provincial Government from Ottawa, but Provincial Police are holding themselves in readiness to comply with whatever requests, on this or other matters, which may be preferred, Mr. Wimmer said. No complaints of profiteering have been received up to the present, it was indicated.

PRICES MOUNTING
Consumers in the city however began to complain yesterday of steadily mounting food prices. Retail prices for many staple commodities have been climbing gradually for the past two or three weeks, and more sharply during the last week. Significant increases are reported even in some lines where it is believed there is little likelihood of a shortage.

Flour and butter are the essentials which have shown the greatest price increases so far. Flour began climbing early in August, and has mounted steadily through frequent 20- and 30-cent increases. Yesterday the wholesale price was $6.90 per 200-pound barrel, amounting to $1.72 for a forty-nine-pound sack. This represented an advance of 30 cents per barrel over Wednesday's price, and an increase of $2.00 per 200 pounds since August 4. Local retailers have been able to purchase only small quantities of flour from wholesalers this week.

BUTTER HIGHER
Butter has gone up 4 cents per pound in the last ten days. One large Victoria retail store manager said yesterday, he believed there was no good reason for this increase, and estimated that there was a surplus of 5,000,000 pounds of butter in Canada at the present time.

"A week ago I wired three creameries from which we buy," this retailer said. "They refused quotations until Tuesday, then advanced the price 3 cents. If they sold to the English market they would have to quote a price of 18 cents at Montreal."

Other local butter retailers said that while the rise in price would normally indicate a butter scarcity, they were still accepting Dominion Government offerings which provided free butter to relief recipients. The plan of giving free butter to relief recipients had been adapted to lessen the reentry of butter surplus, it was pointed out.

OTHER ADVANCES
Other foodstuffs to show an increase in price in Victoria this week are: Lard, up 2 cents; smoked and cooked meats, up 2 cents; eggs, up 2 1/2 to 3 cents; pork, up 2 cents; and lamb, up 1 to 2 cents.

As soon as these are exhausted to meet advancing wholesale charges, unless steps are taken to prevent that they will have to boost prices further increases.

CANADA'S "WAR POLICY"

Canada is not to send an Expeditionary Force to take part in the War at present; she is not to send one until her Government considers it is needed; none will go until after consultation with Great Britain. Canada's preoccupation is to be the defence of the Dominion and patrol work by four destroyers in the waters of Newfoundland and Labrador, and in guarding the French islands in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Some armies may be sent overseas in the course of time.

It has been stated that, so far, Germany has only called upon one-fourth of her military strength. She has man power to bring into the field in excess of that of the Allied Armies. The Great War was a war of attrition. It may well be that the present one will be the same. Great Britain, preparing to meet one of the greatest crises in her history, has put conscription into force. She is massing her Army on the Western Front, and a steady stream of tens of thousands of troops will be flowing there during months to come, perhaps years. Australia is to send an Expeditionary Force to her aid. Little New Zealand is to do the same. In India the natives have responded to the call of Great Britain in such numbers that the ordinary business life has been threatened with disruption, and a temporary halt has had to be called to the flow of recruits anxious to go to Europe to sustain the military fortunes of a land that is not their Motherland.

There are now many hundreds of Canadians fighting with the naval, military and air forces of Great Britain. They must serve, for the time being at least, without any national recognition or assistance in the War from Ottawa. That is not a pleasant thought in such a crisis. This country won high prestige in the field of battle during the Great War, a reputation not possible because the then Dominion Government, without an instant of hesitation, marshalled its forces for overseas service. Prestige of that sort can be wiped out by the stroke of a political pen. No prestige is of any moment unless it can be sustained in all times of emergency.

The issue of human liberty is at stake on the battlefields of Europe. Men and women of the blood are being killed in cold blood by the protagonists of aggression. Canada, without an Expeditionary Force, will resemble a country standing at ease, while Great Britain and France are throwing their all into the balance in the cause of civilization itself. The Prime Minister intimates that an Expeditionary Force will be sent from this country, if needed. To the man in the street it would appear that it is needed now, when the armed forces of Germany are trampling Poland underfoot. It is the weight of numbers that will enable the Allies to smash the Siegfried Line, invade Germany and enforce peace. The greater the weight is in the early stages of the war, the more it is added to with the least possible delay, the quicker the War will end. Canada may well find herself in the position of having decided upon a temporary policy that will contribute to the prolongation of the War. As it is, her immediate absence from the main theatre of the operations cannot fail to give comfort to the enemy.

WARSAW'S FATE

The centre of interest in yesterday's hostilities was Warsaw. A German official report claims an armored car division of the Army of the Reich has entered the city, the people of Germany have been led to believe that the city has fallen. Polish reports, however, later than the German claims of its capture, are that Warsaw is still holding out, but that it is subject to bombardment. There is a lot of uncertainty thrown over the situation in Poland. All that is certain is that German arms are making more rapid advances than were anticipated by either the Poles or their Allies. If it is true that Germany has diverted troops from her Eastern to the Western Front, this movement has made no difference to the crushing character of her campaign in Poland.

An official British communiqué describes the German U-boat campaign as violent, with the sinking of merchantmen at sight and without warning, and in contravention of the convention of 1935, to which Germany was one of the signatories. The campaign is reproducing features similar to those in the Great War. Germany, in advance of the entry of Great Britain and France into the War, sent her submarines to points where they could attack merchantmen and passenger vessels. In this respect she was well prepared, and knew that her course of action in Poland would mean that the Anglo-French pledge to that country would be implemented.

On the Western Front, infantry, with tanks in advance, continue to penetrate no man's land between the Siegfried and Maginot Lines. A communiqué says that these advances mean the improvement of conditions for a main effort. The French belief is that six divisions of the German Army have been diverted from the Polish to the Western Front, but there is no confirmation of this report. It is wholly unlikely that anything that can happen in any attack on the Siegfried Line will save Warsaw from its fate. The course of events in Poland shows conclusively that the German Army was far better equipped for the purposes of aggression than the Poles were for defence.

The communiqués of the British Ministry of Information have become fuller, but the censorship exercised continues to be directed so that no information of value will be given to the enemy. It is unlikely that there will be much news of the destruction of submarines. Germany will be left to speculate on their fate. The British Government is certain that it can bring this menace under control. The convoy system for merchantmen and passenger ships is being perfected, and will be fully in force almost immediately. Whatever unrest there is about the lack of news respecting the operations of the War, there is comfort in the knowledge that there is every confidence shown in the language of the British official communiqués.

TASK OF THE RED CROSS

The Red Cross is going to be a very busy organization for some time to come. This body, as first conceived by Dr. Henri Dunant, and inspired by what he saw following the Battle of Solferino, was described by him as to be prepared in a period of peace and tranquillity "to form aid societies, the aim of which should be to care for the wounded in time of war, by zealous and devoted volunteers properly qualified for such work."

He emphasized the need that it should be a voluntary movement. "For a task of this kind," he said, "it is not mercenaries who are wanted. Too often paid informers become hardened or they leave the service in disgust, or fatigue renders them indolent. What is needed is voluntary men and women nurses, diligent, prepared, and trained to the work, and who, being recognized by the heads of armies in the field, would be aided and supported in their mission."

The Red Cross has become a world-wide organization since the time of its founder. Its charter is the Geneva Convention, signed on August 26, 1864. It has found an admirable sphere of usefulness both in peace and war, for during the former period, again and again, it has been the agent of mercy wherever great human tragedies have occurred. It is in war time, however, that its preoccupation is greatest, that there is a call on its services sometimes of a character that strains it to the utmost. There will be such a call in the present war; already it has come out of Poland, and soon it will be heard from the Western Front. Everywhere the forces of mercy are gathering up their battalions of workers, banded together to alleviate human suffering. The task that lies ahead will call for a supreme effort, and for large sums of money, which humanitarians everywhere will be expected to subscribe.

MONTHS OF "DESTINY"

Herr Hitler, who is a student of astrology, regards March and September as the months favorable in his horoscope. In March, 1934, he announced the creation of a new air force and universal military training, both in contravention of the Treaty of Versailles. His troops marched into the Rhineland in March, 1936. In March, 1938, the military occupation of Austria occurred. In September, 1938, the Sudetenland came under German control. In March of this year Czechoslovakia was occupied. Now, in September, Herr Hitler has launched the war against Poland, with all its consequences. If there is any coincidence in the dates of these happenings they bespeak preconceived intentions, apart altogether from the illusion of astrological prediction. Perhaps, after all, the simplest explanation is that the German ruler believes himself to be a Man of Destiny. His public utterances have a strong egotistic strain.

Stephen Leacock, writing in The New York Times Magazine, tells a story against himself. He says that some years ago when he was a dinner guest of a famous club in Boston, the chairman introduced him with these words: "Our guest tonight is an economist. I need hardly remind you, gentlemen, of the large part played in our life today by our economists. Indeed, it has been calculated that if all the economists were laid out in a line, end to end, starting at the Mexican border, they would reach—" the chairman paused impressively and added—"nowhere." Mr. Leacock agrees that what was a joke then is a plain fact now.

No one is less respected than a man who muddles away a large income no one knows how. For all else, a man should be something to show, and that something should have either usefulness or permanence to recommend it.—Hinemann.

Modesty in your discourse will give a lustre to truth and an excuse to your error.—Wells.

Note and Comment

By SANHAM GRAVES

Now it is the Fall Fair. Will you go to the fair this year; not in spite of the war, but because of it? It would do you no end of good, if you go in the right frame of mind. Besides your obvious duty in times of emergency, there is the question of the tricolor ice cream sandwich. If you bite into the white, it squashes pink at the far side. Attack the pink, before it can drop, and you force out the chocolate in the center, and the white at the now reversed end. An intelligent person can spend half an hour with a tricolor ice cream sandwich, and still have barely begun to discover its vast possibilities. It should require several sandwiches to become adept, to really time the squishes without losing the goods.

Of course what you do with your time is optional; but after you have eaten several ice cream sandwiches you will no longer worry over the war, or your appearance, or anything else. Then you are in the right frame of mind, and can enjoy yourself. Let me tell you right now that your fellow human beings are the very best of the show. On no account mist them. Watch grandpa on the sordid pony, the one that requires nothing to be placed on its nose. It is a merry-go-round pony, and just watch it go. Back of it is a car driven by a woman, a kind of meteorological wagon, which never quite leaves the ground. Grandpa, the sport, is in there back of the swans, looking as if he should have chosen a pony, after all. That time, now, where did you hear that? The crowd whistles around the post, and comes down hand-somely beside the swans; playing "Mama, Oh Mama, That Moon Is Here Again!" Sure it is. Well, it has most of the notes, anyway.

Perhaps you prefer the ponies where you are expected, to put something on their noses. I never could understand why, but it seems to me that you are just doing. Just put something on that kind of a pony's nose, and there is no telling what it will do. I have never met a man yet who has been able to tell me, correctly, what would happen. You just sit there and listen to the thunder of galloping hooves—only a board with figures on it goes up, and it is all over. The gentleman besides you explains that you put something on the wrong nose, that's all. But it is the crowd, that is the fun of the thing. In addition, the queerest things, "Come on, Quick Duff!" "Take him, Baldface!" "It's Appljack, by a nose." Things like that. You have to know your noses. I guess, I have known Ministers of the Crown to spend a whole afternoon looking for the right nose, and not finding it. They seemed to enjoy it, too. That is all that does matter, at the fair.

Then, of course, there are the rutabagas—turnips to you. Once a year it is your common duty to inspect and admire the rutabagas, the soft wheat, the hard wheat, the field peas, the timothy seed, and all the other products of the soil. ## CONVERSATIONS TAKING PLACE

British and Italian Diplomats Meet for Discussion in Rome

ROME, Sept. 8 (AP)—New diplomatic conversations took place tonight between Great Britain and Italy.

Informed quarters said, following the meeting between British Ambassador Sir Percy Loraine and Italian Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano that Britain was doing everything possible to persuade Italy to enter the war at Germany's side. Official information was lacking, but usually well-informed circles were of the opinion Britain was telling Italy that Britain and France were prepared to continue the fight with Adolf Hitler for years if necessary, and that because of their greater resources Germany had no chance of winning.

These quarters said Britain also was endeavoring to persuade Premier Mussolini that a German victory would be just as injurious to Italy as to Britain and France. They said the British advanced the argument that Hitler, once becoming the master of Europe, would begin thinking of Southern Italy, points on the Adriatic and complete domination of the Balkans. Italy, meanwhile, continued to give indications she had no idea of going to war at present, but she also continued her war preparations. Additional sailings of Italian passenger ships and resumption of train service to Germany was announced.

TWO SHIPS PREY OF MINE BLASTS

Seven of Crew of German Freighter Perish—Loss on Unidentified Vessel Unknown

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 8 (AP)—On the western side of the Danish Peninsula, two ships came to grief, one with a known loss of seven men, when they apparently struck mines today. Of the fourteen members in the crew of the German steamer Heffrid Bismark, half lost their lives when an explosion occurred south of Ore Sound, between the island of Sjælland and westernmost of the large Danish islands and Sweden. The belief that it struck a mine was expressed by survivors. More than a hundred miles away off the Danish island of Aere, south of Funen, an unidentified vessel was blown up. Observers said they believed it was a German freighter and that all hands were killed.

MEXICAN AID WILL FOLLOW SYMPATHIES

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 8 (CP-Havas)—A statement issued on behalf of President Lazaro Cardenas last night said Mexico prepared to export raw materials to "those combatants who deserve Mexican sympathies." The statement was interpreted widely as an indication that Mexico would favor Great Britain and France in their war with Germany.

EAMON DE VALERA SHUFFLING CABINET

DUBLIN, Sept. 8 (AP)—Prime Minister Eamon de Valera shuffled his cabinet tonight, moving seven ministers to different cabinet positions. Frank Aiken, as Minister for Co-ordination of Defensive Measures, was placed in charge of censorship and air raid precautions.

SENTENCED IN COUNTY COURT

Vancouver Taxi Driver Jailed For Attempt to Obstruct Justice

VANCOUVER, Sept. 8 (CP)—Harvey McKibbin, a taxi driver of this city, was sentenced by Judge C. J. Lennon in County Court today to one month imprisonment with hard labor on a charge of attempting to obstruct justice by offering, for $300, to fall to give evidence at a County Court trial.

McKibbin was convicted of offering to leave the city so that he would not have to appear as a Crown witness at the trial of Constance Hamilton, acquitted of charges of accepting bribes of two bottles of rum for not pressing a speeding charge against him. It was McKibbin's information that the charges against the constable were laid.

SAFETY OF LIVESTOCK

SIR:—In view of the return of warm weather and the dry condition of the old cattle barns at the willows, the amount of hay and straw around, it seems to me that some steps should be taken to prohibit smoking in any places where animals of any kind are kept.

On my last visit to the Exhibition, I was amazed to see both visitors and attendants smoking matches and lighting cigarettes, with heaps of straw and hay nearby. Should a fire break out in one of these sheds nothing could save the animals from a terrible death, and it isn't giving them a square deal to risk it. It only means a few minutes' delay in lighting up until well away from the barns.

The creatures are there for our pleasure, and it is only common fair play that they should be protected from criminal carelessness. I was hoping that somebody else would take this matter up, but no one has and time is getting short.

Also, it is well to remember that we are at war, and therefore a cleaner than usual should be kept on all buildings, especially those housing livestock.

HUSBANDS PLEASE NOTE

A man who was accustomed to allow his wife a taxi when on "shopping" rounds intent was rebuked by a friend for his extravagance. "Oh, no!" responded the husband. "It's economy I'm aiming at, and I hit the target. Whenever she is in a shop she'll be worried to death because that taxi is costing money all the time, and so she will stay long enough to spend half as much as she would if she went on a bus or tram."

TO SUPPORT WAR POLICY

Conservative Leader Pledges Party to Aid Government Programme for Canada

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (CP)—Pledging the support of the Conservative party to the Government's policy of "effective co-operation at the aid of Britain" in a war against German aggression, Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, the party leader, warned today against profiteering and political abuses in Canada during the war.

Repeating his argument of the last session of Parliament, that Canada should be strongly defended against attack, Dr. Manion went further and declared his belief that "our best defense is an offensive" in the European theatre of war. Dr. Manion opened the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the Throne, speaking ahead of Prime Minister Mackenzie King. He urged that Canada's industries and resources be organized and co-ordinated on a national basis and that neither partnership nor favoritism should be permitted a place in the nation's efforts.

CARE IN ENLISTMENTS

Speaking as a veteran of the last war, in which he had a distinguished career, Dr. Manion warned against errors which caused expense and inefficiency in that conflict, particularly with respect to enlistment of those physically unfit.

While declaring himself ready to support measures to authorize the necessary spending for Canada's war effort, Dr. Manion said he was opposed to high interest rates on bond issues, as was the case in the last war.

In assuring the House of Commons that his party would support the Government's war efforts and refrain from capricious criticism or partisanship, Dr. Manion used words similar to those used by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who was leader of the Liberal Opposition at the emergency session of 1914.

Referring to the Government's policy of co-operation, Dr. Manion said that "with that expression of desire for the effective assistance and authority of Parliament, I may say at once that the Prime Minister has the assent and support of the party I have the honor to lead."

"It is our duty to let the world know that we are today united behind the Mother Country in this war for human liberty."

FIGHT FOR LIBERTY

Canada had no enemy for the German people as such but for their leader, Adolf Hitler, who had grieved him and his followers. Hitlerism was "international gangsterism," he declared. "This is a war for human liberty. We are fighting for Christianity in all its branches."

There could be no neutrality for Canada while any part of the Empire was at war, Dr. Manion said. "We cannot be in the Empire and out of it at the same time."

Urging the strongest possible defence measures, Dr. Manion indicated Canada itself was in danger of attack, and this was particularly so if by any chance the democracies of Europe should lose in the war.

In the event of defeat of England and France, the United States would be our very gates instead of 3,000 miles away across the ocean," Dr. Manion said.

It might well be that "our best defense is an offensive in that far-off land."

GERMAN TROOPS IN WARSAW'S SUBURBS

planes were dumping loads of bombs into the Vistula River bridges in Warsaw.

NON-MILITARY OBJECTIVES

At 11:40 p.m., the announcer, speaking in English, said "the Germans are bombing purely non-military objectives in the central and most densely populated sector of the town."

The English speaker said: "Due to constant heavy air raids on the bridges, the inhabitants have moved to the centre of Warsaw, where now there is severe bombing."

The entire populace, with the full support of radio warnings, now is preparing a defence in the streets, erecting barricades of all sorts and digging deep trenches in the hope of catching enemy tanks.

"Street cars are running, shops are open and there is no food shortage," the announcer said.

"Admission that the Germans were inside the capital followed by only four minutes a denial of a Berlin announcement that German advance motorized units had entered the city at 5:15 p.m."

PLANNING TO RETREAT

Diplomatic dispatches received in Budapest said the Polish army was planning to retreat to the east bank of the Vistula at Warsaw, blasting bridges behind them.

Positions were said to be already prepared for a stubborn defence there, just south of the capital.

The Polish Army was described as having made an orderly retreat. The danger zone of the next few days was seen as being in the south, where the Germans are driving toward Lodow.

These dispatches said that if the Germans reached Lodow they then would turn the Polish position making an east bank defence on the Vistula practically impossible.

They reported that heavy troop reinforcements were being rushed southward by the Poles in an attempt to prevent such a tactic.

ARMORED CARS LEAD

BERLIN, Sept. 8 (AP)—The German High Command claimed tonight that an advance guard of armored cars entered Warsaw at 5:15 p.m. (8:15 a.m. P.S.T.), while other motorized divisions were within ten miles of the Polish capital.

If the claim was correct, Warsaw was reached on the eighth day of the German drive that started September 1.

The feeling among Germans now was that unless the defence tightened suddenly, motorized divisions may occupy the city tonight or tomorrow.

Motorized divisions from the southwest, the High Command said, reached the town of Maczomow, twenty-five miles from Warsaw, earlier in the day, then pushed ahead a few miles before dusk.

GERMANS NEAR LODZ
Lodz had not been taken, but troops were reported at the southeastern edge of the city at nightfall.

Heavy fighting was reported in the vicinity of Kielce in the Lysa Gora Mountains, where troops advancing toward Lublin and the Polish industrial section have reported meeting stiff resistance.

Lublin now is the temporary seat of Poland's Government, which left Warsaw, ninety miles to the north-east, several days ago, after repeated bombings.

Some departments of the government were reported in Berlin to have moved again—this time farther southeast to Lodow.

The Governor further advised that the Bermuda Assembly unanimously passed a motion supporting every measure to further the war against Germany.

A resolution was passed that the association would stand behind the Empire in the present crisis and would offer any assistance possible. It was announced that several members had obtained work through the association. The meeting was presided over by Samuel Saunders.

ISLAND OF SYLT HEAVILY BOMBED

Fleet of Planes From Southwest Attacks German Anti-Aircraft Fortification

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 8 (AP)—A concentrated bombing attack on the heavily fortified German Island of Sylt, near the western end of the Kiel Canal, apparently was made today by what one observer described as ten to fifteen planes which came from the southwest.

Anti-aircraft guns boomed and explosions indicated bombs were being dropped. It was preceded by an attack last night.

The island of Sylt is the site of a German anti-aircraft defence fortification. British authorities made no reference today to a bombing mission having been directed at Sylt.

How It Started
Iodine—It Means "Violet-Colorful"

Iodine, known from earliest times, was not, however, so named until comparatively recently. The French chemist Gay-Lussac, noting the color of the vapor of this non-metallic element, now so widely used as an antiseptic called it iodine, after the Greek word meaning "violet-like" or "violet-colored."

But other names had been and were being suggested, and in this connection the English scientist Sir Henry Davy wrote in 1814:

"The name iodine has been proposed in France for this new substance from its color in the gaseous state. The name would lead to confusion. By terming it iodine this confusion will be avoided and the name will be more analogous to chlorine and fluorine."

Interestingly in the article quoted from Sir Henry Davy also wrote: "It is probable that iodine will be found in many combinations in nature."

His prediction turned out to be quite correct. Iodine exists in sea water, mineral springs, seaweed, many marine animals and the mother liquor of Chilean sodium nitrate.

STEER DRIVE IS UNDERWAY

Close to Three Hundred Head of Cattle on Way From North

BELLA COOLA, Sept. 8 (CP)—If an experiment of a group of Anahim Lake ranchers is a success, the fishing village of Bella Coola will shortly jump into the position of being one of the major cattle shipping points along the British Columbia Coast.

A cattle drive, consisting of close to 300 head of choice steers, left Anahim Lake Monday, and, if no severe weather on the top of the mountain passes interferes, next Saturday, September 16, will see the Bella Coola Valley re-echoing to the calls of the Chilcotin cow punchers.

The Anahim Lake ranchers, who occupy the southern corner of the Chilcotin Plateau, are pioneering a route which will take them over the mountains and plateau country for seventy-five miles, before dropping from a 7,000-foot pass into the Bella Coola Valley.

FOLLOW-OLD-TRAIL

The ranchers will follow a trail first blazed by packers, who in 1861 and 1863, took supplies and gold seekers from the Coast into the Cariboo gold fields.

They will cross the southern part of Tweedsmuir Park and cross Summer-long snows high above Canoe Crossing, following a historical summer trail that has been used by Indians ever since they started using horses.

Dropping down the steep Canoe Crossing trail, the herd will enter the valley twenty miles above salt water and will be taken down to the tide flats, held in corrals and loaded onto a large thirty-four by ninety-foot scow.

WATER TO VANCOUVER

The scow will be towed into the vicinity of the corral at high tide, the cattle loaded at low tide and the scow towed out to sea to begin the 350-mile trip to Vancouver at the next high tide.

The ranchers represented in the shipment included: Ronald Waite, Lester Dorsey, Y. Christensen, A. Schilling and C. L. Bryant.

The experiment of taking the beef to Vancouver this way is being undertaken because of the objection of several ranchers to take the herd over the usual Williams Lake-Pacific Great Eastern route, over which the cattle are driven overland 200 miles, taking twenty-one days and causing a heavy loss in weight to the animals.

By routing them westward over this experimental trail, the trek will be shortened one week and the subsequent trip to Vancouver will be shorter with less handling.

It will be the first time in history an appreciable number of cattle have been shipped from Bella Coola.

JUNIOR CHAMBER ELECTS OFFICERS

CALGARY, Sept. 8 (CP)—H. G. D. Lee, thirty-two-year-old businessman of Hamilton, Ont., today was named national president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Canada. He succeeds Andrew Wainwright of Winnipeg.

J. K. McVie, of Vancouver and Anne Laurin, of Montreal, were named vice-presidents for Western Canada and Eastern Canada respectively. Two directors-at-large, J. A. Taylor, of Vancouver, and A. Desmarais, of Montreal, also were named provincial directors.

Wedding Is Celebrated At St. Andrew's Church

A pretty wedding took place at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Thursday evening when Rev. J. L. W. McLean united in marriage L. W. McLean, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Ridout, 427 Kingston Street, and Mr. David Lacey Crowe, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Crowe, Shantich Road. The church had been beautifully decorated by Mrs. C. Penderay and Mrs. W. Duval with a profusion of flowers.

LOVELY BRIDE

As the bride entered the church with her father, who gave her in marriage, the organist, Mr. Jesse Longfield, played the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin." The bride was radiant in her gown of white tulle over satin, made with a fitted bodice and long bouffant skirt. With it she wore a bolero of starched lace with puff sleeves and her only ornament was a carnelian pendant. The bridegroom wore a long suit of finest French net, formed a train and was attached to a cap of starched lace, held in place with a strand of orange blossoms. Her coronal bouquet was composed of lily of the valley and pink roses.

THE ATTENDANTS

The matron of honor was Mrs. Brian Flintoff, who wore a frock of teal blue embroidered net over satin, the rash having long rips. Which hung to the bottom of the floor-length skirt. Her Bo-Peep hat of blue net was trimmed with pink flowers and worn with a shoulder-length blue veil. Her lace mittens and shoes were pink and her Victorian pose was composed of pink carnations and roses. The bridesmaid was the bride's cousin, Miss Doreen McKeen, who wore a shell pink net frock and pink hat Bo-Peep hat, trimmed with blue flowers, her mittens, shoes and bouquet carrying out the contrasting blue shades. Little two-year-old Ariene Ridout, niece of the bride, was the flower girl, wearing a fascinating frock of blue tulle, made with a high bodice and long skirt, the frock being ornamented with silk true-lover's-knots in pastel shades. She wore a blue poke bonnet with long ribbon streamers and carried a diminutive colonial pony. The bride's cousin, David Ridout, who is two and a half years old, wore a white satin suit.

Mr. Ronald Kitching was best man and the ushers were Mr. Joe Barlow and Mr. James Durkin. While the register was being signed, Mr. Arnold Travett sang "O Promise Me," and as the bride party left the church the organist played the "Wedding March."

AT THE RECEPTION

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where Mrs. Ridout, wearing a Capri rose silk gown, matching hat and accessories, and a corsage-bouquet of Tallman roses, and Mrs. Crowe, mother of the groom, in a navy blue and white redingote frock, with blue and white hat and corsage bouquet of pink roses, assisted the young couple in receiving.

The three-tier wedding cake occupied the place of honor on the supper table, which was decorated with pink carnations on a handsome Italian cutwork and lace cloth. The toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. D. Spence. A profusion of hydrangeas and gladioli was used in decoration of the house.

The bride's going-away outfit was a smart black tailored suit, worn with a bright green blouse and green accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Crowe will make their home at the Fairmont Apartments, Queens Avenue.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Williams and Miss Victoria Williams, of San Francisco, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Ridout and Miss Ariene Ridout, of Mercer, California.

DOMINION PLANS

AID TO BRITAIN

witnessed was permitted to go unchecked.

Canada itself was threatened. Hitler had recently said that if England went to war the price would be the British Empire. That included Canada and no part of the world was more desirable to a conquering nation.

Mr. King said he would quote the Nazi leader's own words to the effect that the man who would start a war in Europe could desire only chaos. Chaos was what Hitler now desired.

The Government would continue in close consultation with the British Government. Mr. Mackenzie King assured the House in an outline of the immediate steps proposed by the Government. This would insure that Canada's assistance would not be unplanned and irresponsible.

FIRST REQUISITES

Canadian coastal defence and internal security were the first things required from the Government. Then a wide variety of economic measures would be taken to prevent profiteering, to maintain essential services and bring industry and agriculture to the highest pitch of efficiency.

The integrity of Newfoundland and Labrador was essential to Canadian security and use of the St. Lawrence waterway. The British Government had agreed that if Canada contributed to the defence of these areas and other French and British territories on this side of the Atlantic, it would be an effective and desirable means of co-operation.

Acting in other theatres of war would depend on future information as to the character of British and Allied action and so the question of an expeditionary force for service overseas would require fullest examination.

IN FULL AGREEMENT

On two points raised by Dr. Manion, Mr. Mackenzie King gave the House the fullest assurance of agreement. These were the necessity of preventing profiteering and political partisanship.

In the Government's view any man who sought to make a profit out of Canada's war effort belonged to the underworld and would be treated as such. Nonetheless, he said, the underworld was sometimes hard to control, and he urged members and the public to call to the attention of the Government any instances of profiteering.

He served notice on all Liberal members to stay away from him if they wanted any person placed in any position in relation to the war or awarded any contract because of personal or political friendship. "I will not listen to them and in saying that I speak for the Government," he declared.

Canada must co-operate not only with Great Britain, but with France and every other country anxious to defend the world's freedom.

MUST CO-OPERATE

The Government's first considerations must be to "defend Canada and co-operate with Great Britain and France," said the Prime Minister.

"If Parliament won't support these policies, then they'll have to find some other government," Mr. Mackenzie King declared.

"The lust for power blinds men's he said, Hitler had betrayed the world time and time again on pretext after pretext, the Prime Minister said, giving such instances as Austria, Czechoslovakia, Moravia-Bohemia, Menel, Slovakia and Danzig.

Regarding the suggestion that British children should be given refuge in Canada, the Prime Minister said he could only recall that Sir Thomas Inskip, former secretary for the Dominions in the British Government, and now Lord Chancellor, had said the proposal was impossible. Possibly the Government would be attacked for not adopting this and other suggestions, but it had to consider what was feasible.

A petition from French-speaking electors of Quebec Province opposing Canadian participation in any European war was tabled without comment by Maxime Raymond (Liberal, Beauharnois-Laprairie).

Signed variously in pencil and ink, the petition, comprising four brown paper parcels, was deposited with the Clerk of the House. Mr. Raymond said it was signed by "thousands of citizens."

ARTICLE No. 1

By Robt. G. Jackson, M.D.

I DO NOT like a hoaster, therefore I dare not hoast. But if you had for twenty years been looking into a grave and then had worked out a food that had brought you back to such health that for thirty years you had not had an ache, a pain or a cold you would feel pretty sure you had unusual food knowledge. Then if after thirty years of absolute health you had a serious accident that confined you to bed for seven months at eighty yet those same foods ultimately brought you back to the most perfect health of body and mind at eighty-one you would know you were really a food expert. Well such has been my happy experience.

I challenge you to discover any similar case in all the history of dietetics. There is none. My training in medicine, food chemistry and dietetics and my experience in my long, long, illness in mid-life fitted me in a most unusual way to develop an unusual food and Dr. Jackson Meal (formerly Roman Meal) is certainly that. With my experience and special knowledge back of it, it ought to be, and a trial of three or four packages will prove it to you.

Remember it is the little differences in foods that count and Dr. Jackson Meal and Kofy-Sub have these aplenty. I challenge you to try them out and then deny this statement. At all good grocers everywhere.

One-half million copies of my book "HOW TO BE ALWAYS WELL" have been sold at $3.00 per copy. If interested in better health write for particulars to Robt. G. Jackson M.D., Toronto 9, Ont.

NOTE:—Soon, at eighty-two years of age, I'll be lecturing all across Canada. Admission free. Watch for dates. Come and see for yourself what these foods have done for me.

Seattle Girl Wins Jasper Park Golf; Bill Hoggan Loses

Barbara Winn Captures Totem Pole Honors by Defeating Mrs. Cumming, Vancouver, in Final — Nanaimo Shotmaker Is Beaten

JASPER, Sept. 8.—The women's championship of Totem Pole Golf Week goes to Seattle. Miss Barbara Winn defeated Mrs. W. R. Cumming, Vancouver, in a well played match—much better golf than the score of 4 and 3 indicated. Miss Winn played steady golf throughout, while Mrs. Cumming lost many holes by poor putting.

In the semi-finals of the Totem Pole championship, "Dr. George Bigelow, Prince Albert, advanced to the final by defeating W. Hoggan, Nanaimo, 4 and 3. In the lower half of the draw, Donald Thompson, long-hitting Portland youth, defeated D. Gowan, Vancouver, 5 and 3. The final match will be played Saturday, when Bigelow and Thompson play over the thirty-six-hole route.

In the women's championship, Miss Winn started off by winning the first three holes, taking the first two with one putt each. The fourth and fifth were halved, and Miss Winn took the sixth with a sparkling four. A par three gave her the short seventh, the eighth was a half, and Mrs. Cumming won her first hole at the ninth to make the turn four down.

The tenth and eleventh were halved, and Mrs. Cumming took the twelfth when Miss Winn conceded after being in the traps. Miss Winn took the long thirteenth with a par, and Mrs. Cumming won back the fourteenth. A par three on the sort fifteenth gave Miss Winn the match and the championship. Miss Winn played steadily and with confidence throughout, and was never in arrears.

HOGGAN BEATEN
In the Bigelow-Hoggan match, Hoggan got away to a nice start to win the first two holes, the second with a birdie. Bigelow took the third with a par and the short fourth with a three to square the match. The fifth was a half, and Bigelow parred the sixth to win. He won the seventh and ninth with par three, but Hoggan won the eighth with a par. Bigelow made the turn two up.

Bigelow took the tenth in par and the next two were halved. Hoggan birdied the thirteenth to win, but Bigelow parred the next two holes to end the match. In the Gowan-Thompson match they were all square at the end of the fourth. Thompson took the fifth, and the next two were halved. Thompson birdied the eighth, and a par at the ninth gave him three holes to make the turn on. The tenth, eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth were halved in even par figures, while on the fourteenth a sparkling shot from the rough gave the hole to Thompson. A par three at the "bad baby" ended the match. Thompson played steady golf, while Gowan found a bit of shakiness on the greens which had him under pressure a great deal of the time.

Issue List of "Indispensables"

LONDON, Sept. 8 (CP).—The Government issued a new list of workers considered too important at home to be conscripted or permitted to volunteer in the armed forces.

Men over a certain age in each of the twenty-one listed categories must remain at work, while those under the age limit could take similar work with the armed forces. Most of the age limits were twenty-five, but they varied between eighteen and sixty-five, according to the importance of their jobs.

U.S. RAISES ARMED FORCE

President Places Nation on Emergency Basis and Calls More Troops

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—President Roosevelt today placed the United States on a limited "national emergency" footing and ordered that 100,000 men be added to the nation's armed forces to help protect its neutrality.

In a proclamation which the justice department explained was issued under the President's constitutional powers, Mr. Roosevelt declared the European war imposed on the United States "certain duties" respecting the "proper" observance, safeguarding and enforcement of its neutrality and the strengthening of the national defense "within the limits of peacetime authorizations."

NOT ON WAR BASIS

Then, after emphasizing that this new step should in no way be construed as putting the nation on a war basis, Mr. Roosevelt signed a series of orders under the new proclamation authorizing the army to be augmented by 17,000 men over and above the total for which Congress has voted funds; the navy by 20,000; the National Guard to 45,000; and the Marine Corps by 6,000. New officers to be added to the rolls will bring the total to about 100,000, it was indicated.

All the recruits will be raised by "voluntary enlistment."

Before leaving for a week-end at Hyde Park, N.Y., Mr. Roosevelt also issued orders adding 150 men to the Federal Bureau of Investigation to run down spies and check subversive activities, and directed that $500,000 be supplied the State Department under existing appropriations to protect and help United States citizens safely home from Europe.

It was explained that even after the goals announced today are attained, the armed forces will be "short of the full peacetime strength authorized by Congress. The orders would raise the army to 227,000; the navy to 145,000; the National Guard to 215,000; and the Marine Corps to 25,000.

Regarding a special session of Congress to revise the Neutrality Act, the President told reporters he had talked this over with Democratic and Republican leaders but had reached no decision on a date. He reiterated, however, that it was not a question of "whether" one would be called but "when."

WITHDRAWS FOR NATIONAL UNITY

Liberal Candidate Drops From Contest in Calgary By-Election —Acclamation Expected

CALGARY, Sept. 8 (CP)—In the interest of national unity and feeling that a political campaign in Calgary West is not desirable, Maxwell J. Edwards, Calgary barrister and Liberal candidate for the Federal by-election in Calgary West, September 25, has announced his withdrawal.

At the present only one candidate, Colonel D. G. L. Cunningham, Conservative, seeking the seat held by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, former National Conservative leader, is in the field. The by-election was called following Mr. Bennett's retirement.

The Calgary Co-operative Commonwealth Federation organization here have decided not to enter a candidate.

THE CAUSE OF BLUE MONDAY

Employers will tell you, and investigation will prove, that there are more absences from work on Mondays than on any other day of the week. One would think that most workers would be more tired, would catch cold more readily and feel less like working toward the end of the week than at the beginning.

In these days when most workers are free Saturday<sup>a</sup> afternoons and all day Sunday, and many are free all day Saturday and Sunday, it would be thought that with this prolonged rest from work they would be more fit for work Monday than any other day. But they are not.

Why? Just as soon as they are

free for the week-end and many workers naturally feel that they are on a holiday and that the "regular" routine of life must be broken. This idea of breaking the regular routine of work and life is excellent for a vacation—two or more weeks—but is not wise for a week-end holiday.

While there are some workers who engage in play—baseball, cricket, soccer, golf—there are more who use the week-end to simply eat and sleep. The sleeping or resting part is all right because many may need the rest, but eating, eating more than during the other days of the week, is what causes trouble.

During the working days of the week the food eaten is used not only to maintain or keep the body processes going, but any food left over from the working of the body processes is used up by the work done about the office or factory. There is thus not much waste left in the body to be thrown out by the lungs, kidneys, skin and intestine.

What happens when more food is eaten, more rest is taken, and little or no work is done?—

The wastes from all this extra food clog the liver, clog the intestine, clog the kidneys (not completely or seriously, of course) and the energy of the body is expended in overcoming the effects of these wastes in the blood and tissues. These wastes can, and do, tire the body as much as wastes created by actually working hard physically. The individual who eats more at the week-end and takes less exercise can be just as tired, just as ready to catch cold, as if he had become tired from working hard.

CATTY

An actress was taking her dog for a walk in the park when she met her deadliest rival wearing a new fur coat. The dog began to leap in a friendly fashion around the wearer of the fur coat. His mistress apologized sweetly. "Don't mind Fido," she said. "He's so keen on rabbiting!"

What Today Means

"VIRGO"

If September 9 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a.m. until 12 noon, from 3 to 5 p.m., and from 8 to 10 p.m. The danger periods are from 8 to 10 a.m., from 6 to 8 p.m., and from 10 p.m. until midnight.

Do not let disappointments sour your disposition, because before this day passes they may be more than offset by agreeable surprises. Something decidedly intriguing may make this a most interesting day for you. Flattery might accomplish wonders, and ridicule is likely to be a weapon against an antagonist. The purse-proud will have, more than likely, their feeling of importance belittled in a very embarrassing manner, so arrogance is inadvisable. Silence, when questions are asked, is apt to be construed as a tacit form of assent, so if you are opposed to anything you had best express yourself in understandable language. Laziness may make many individuals reluctant to do the research work they are not compelled to do, so if you should need information you might save time and have better results if you get it yourself instead of depending on someone else to do so. Married and engaged couples, and those who are in love, must do their part in shaping affairs to make this a win wide acclaim and become happy and enjoyable day. If a woman, and September 9 is your birthday, you should be a favorite with children, due to your fondness for them. Your opinion may be sought often and respected. You have few prejudices and ought to be able to overcome any that you find it difficult to regret marrying. The child born on September 9 generally, when it reaches its teens, undergoes a great change in its outstanding characteristics, which are sentimental and affectionate, you may be very temperamental. You should make an excellent actor, lawyer, lecturer, chairman, historical or fiction writer, promoter, politician or salesman. If a man, and September 9 is your natal day, you should have sufficient fortitude to withstand any stress or strain which the whims of Fortune see fit to impose upon it. Your frankness may make for you as many friends as you have enemies, so you are careful. "Deeply emotional, and have to lay the lineatum."
